

the fact that the number of people who are not in the labor force is increasing. This is due to a number of factors, including the aging of the population, the increase in the number of people who are disabled, and the increase in the number of people who are not in the labor force for other reasons.

38